

GloPent World 2020

Mapping Global Pentecostal Issues

Program

31 October 2020

Welcome

Thank you for joining the European Research Network on Global Pentecostalism (GloPent) in our first virtual conference on pentecostal and charismatic studies. We welcome presentations from around the world and scholars from a global array of research networks and academic societies. We hope you will encounter enriching conversations in the four plenary sessions, several pre-recorded presentations, and three blocks of live sessions. Let us take this opportunity to get to know the world of Pentecostal scholarship!

European Research Network on Global Pentecostalism

The European Research Network on Global Pentecostalism (GloPent) is an interdisciplinary academic networking initiative coordinated by experts on Pentecostal and Charismatic movements at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, the University of Basel, the University of Birmingham, University of Cambridge, the University of Heidelberg, and the University of Uppsala.

We are interested in:

- Networking active research about Pentecostal and Charismatic movements worldwide;
- Promoting scientific exchange through our conferences, our journal PentecoStudies, our mailing list, and our website (www.glopent.net);
- Giving scholars a wider platform to introduce their work in Pentecostal Studies by providing bibliographies, papers, news, and links;
- Providing academic information about global Pentecostalism to the European academia;
- Providing study resources for the scholarly community, such as our dedicated GloPent Web Search Engine on Pentecostal and Charismatic Movements;
- Facilitating discussion on theory and method in Pentecostal studies;
- Stimulating academic publications in Pentecostal studies.
